Conference theme and program

Academic integrity is crucial not only for safeguarding the integrity of knowledge creation and dissemination, but also for establishing the public trust that society needs to operate.

The theme of the 8APCEI conference – Academic Integrity as a Public Good – emphasises academic integrity as a society-wide issue with a strong influence on ethical practices within disciplines, professions, industry and business, government and public institutions. Accordingly, the conference program is being developed to initiate a wide-ranging conversation about the importance of academic integrity from multiple perspectives from within and without the academy and higher education institutions. Importantly, this includes the perspective of students themselves.

In addition to keynote addresses and plenary panel discussions with representatives from within and outside the higher education sector, the program is being designed to provide opportunities for interaction in a variety of formats.

This conference will be of interest to academic language and learning educators, academic developers, students, faculty academics, professional staff, and policy developers and implementers.

Call for abstracts and proposals

Proposals on any topic related to Educational Integrity are welcome, but we particularly invite proposals on:
- Connections between educational integrity, professional integrity, public trust and/or community engagement
- Educational integrity in online and transnational education
- Educational integrity regulation, legislation and quality assurance
- Educational technologies vs technological temptations
- Capacity building – supporting students to engage with educational integrity
- Building and maintaining a culture of educational integrity in the University
