

The Ethics of AI in Health Research

A two-part virtual webinar presented by the APRU Working Group on Bioethics

Feb 19 & 26, 2025 5-6:30pm pacific/ Feb 20 & 27, 2025 9-10:30am Manila/HK

Featuring:

Dean Ho, Director, The Institute for Digital Medicine (WisDM), National University of Singapore

Jose Oying Rimon, Senior Scientist, William H. Gates Sr. Institute for Population & Reproductive Health, Johns Hopkins University

Alex Phang Kean Chang, Manager, Medical Research Ethics Committee, University of Malaya Medical Centre

Cameron Stewart, Professor, University of Sydney Law School

Mary Ana Cordero, Bioethics Docent, Medical School, Tecnológico de Monterrey

Catherine Zhou, Teaching Associate, Office of the Dean of Engineering, Hong Kong University of Science & Technology

Jay Shaw, Canada Research Chair in Responsible Health Innovation, University of Toronto

Peter Sy, Vice President for Digital Transformation, University of the Philippines

Moderated by: Mellissa Withers (USC) & Leander Marquez (UP Diliman)

Certificate of participation provided for those who attend both sessions.

Visit our website

Questions? mwithers@usc.edu

Source: <https://www.bu.edu/hic/2020/02/06/comprehending-why-medical-ai-is-perceived-as-a-concern-amongst-the-public/>

Register now here